2021 Rotary Botanical Gardens
Pour and Sip

Join us at Rotary Botanical Gardens for an intimate experience Acrylic Pouring with Janesville artist, Nancy McKinnon. Nancy does workshops for various groups, chaired the Wisconsin Regional Artist Association, and is member of the Janesville Art League, among others, and her work is frequently on display and exhibited in the Janesville, Beloit, and Madison area.

How can one get so excited about pouring paints in and out of a cup, literally throwing it on a surface, and not knowing what is going to happen? No prior experience and having fun is what this process is all about. The results are very satisfying for anyone who has never painted before! Everyone sees something different in each painting. – Nancy McKinnon

Location: Rotary Botanical Gardens

Date and Time: Saturday, December 4th, 1:00pm-3:00pm

Registration Deadline: November 29th

Registration Cost: $45
includes: 12 X 12'' canvas, acrylic paint, two glasses of wine, and Admission to the Gardens.

Seats are limited to ensure Nancy and her assistant can guide participants during their design. Nancy will begin with a demonstration, so participants can see the process of acrylic pouring before they begin. Participants should expect to get messy, gloves will be provided, but if desired, wear old clothing or bring an apron. As stated, this is a Pour n' Sip program, so be sure to bring your ID to be checked. Participants will have a choice of red or white wine selections. NOTE: Due to drying time, designs will have to stay overnight, and can be picked up the following day.
